

SUSPICIOUS NEW HIRES IN OBOL

Recently Obol corporation has hired new staff to work on the recently discovered island. However, it has come to my attention that people have different intentions than originally presented. Here are some of the suspicious findings:

Sterling and Erikson: what are they actually up to? These men have not rolled up their sleeves to actually do anything for Obol while on the island. Where did they get their money? They only spend their time in the tavern, chatting to the staff. Why come when you won't work, truly unbelievable. So what are their true intentions? Do they have other connections? Or do they work for a certain criminal organization?

Petromaris "Peet": The transferred para-geologist from the Heilige Akkoord. At first glance, he is a gentle guy with his glowing stick and crystal. But we need to look deeper into this. Why the sudden transfer? Did he move because of differences, or is he a SPY??? Are we sure he is trustworthy to work for Obol?

Barnabas Redd: The silent mechanic who always stands on the side. Seemingly blends in with the rest of the crew, like he isn't someone. But there is something up his sleeve and no one notices. He slips away when no one is watching, but I am. What are his true intentions? What is he up to? And are his loyalties even to Obol? If not, then who?
