

it tale

of hope

A Raven's black feather falling gently on the snow

Early frost covers grass that doesn't grow

A breeze sings a song that speaks of the sun of spring -

where buck and doe might run.

Words like a promise travel fast to a patient woman's heart at last Inspiring hope where no hope should be encouraging happiness setting both of them free.

S.W.